

National Knowledge Week on TB 24th to 30th March 2008

Hosted by the National electronic Library of Infection (NeLI) and the National Knowledge Service for TB.

NeLI is a single-entry portal to evidence-based medical knowledge around infection.

To sign up for the monthly eNewsletter, please visit www.neli.org.uk

This week will highlight important developments in tuberculosis in the past year.

These include:

- Evidence Updates on TB

Annual evidence updates on:

- Treatment
- Clinical Management
- Strain Typing
- Drug resistance
- Public Health
- Vaccination
- TB & HIV

- Commentaries from experts on recent developments in TB

- Interferon Gamma Release Assay (IGRA) – an update

Marc Lipman

Consultant Physician in Respiratory & HIV Medicine
Department of Respiratory Medicine,
Royal Free Hospital,
London, NW3 2QG

Ibrahim Abubakar

Consultant Epidemiologist & Head of TB Section
Respiratory Diseases Department,
Centre for Infections,
Health Protection Agency,
Colindale, NW9 5EQ

- X - DR TB; Emergence of a new global super bug

Ann Chapman

Consultant in Infectious Diseases,
Department of Infection & Tropical Medicine,
Royal Hallamshire Hospital;
Sheffield, S10 2JF

Philip Monk

Consultant in Health Protection
East Midlands South Health Protection Unit
Atelius House, 2 Smith Way,
Grove Park, Enderby,
Leicester, LE19 1SX

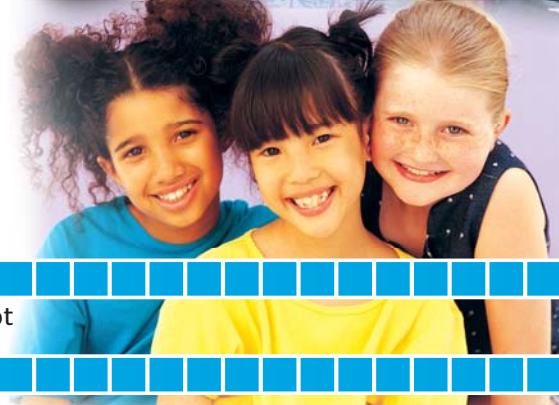

- Tuberculosis in the European Region: Comparing East and West

Mike Catchpole

Deputy Director (Public Health)
Centre for Infections,
Health Protection Agency,
Colindale, NW9 5EQ

Tina Harrison

TB Awareness Officer
TB Alert
Community Base
113 Queens Road
Brighton, BN1 3XG

- Access to information developed by the National Knowledge Service – TB Pilot

- List of useful websites for TB